Standard profits.

6. (1) For the purposes of this Act, the standard profits of a business in relation to any chargeable accounting period shall, subject to the provisions of sub-sections (3) and (4), be—

(a) where the business was in existence before the 31st day of March, 1936, an amount bearing to the profits of the business during the standard period the same proportion as the chargeable accounting period bears to the standard period; provided that if the average amount of capital employed in the business during such chargeable accounting period is greater or less than the average amount of capital employed during the standard period, such amount shall be increased or decreased, as the case may be, by an amount calculated by applying the statutory percentage to the amount of such increase or decrease;

(b) in any other case, an amount calculated by applying the statutory percentage to the average amount of capital employed in the business during such chargeable accounting period.

(2) For the purposes of this section the standard period shall, at the option of the person carrying on the business, be—

(a) the "previous year" as determined under section 2 of Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, for the purpose of the income-tax assessment for the year ending on the 31st day of March, 1937, or the previous year as so determined for the year ending on the 31st day of March, 1938;

(3) If, within the period specified in the notice issued under sub-section (1) of section 13, the person carrying on the business, being a business to which clause (a) of sub-section (1) applies, makes an application to the Excess Profits Tax Officer in this behalf, the Excess Profits Tax Officer shall refer the application to the Board of Referees, and if the Board is satisfied that during the standard period the profits of the business were less than might then have been reasonably expected, it may direct that the standard profits shall be computed as if the profits during the standard period were such greater amount as it thinks just:

Provided that where the person carrying on the business is a company such amount shall not exceed the amount sufficient to provide dividends for the standard period—

(a) on the paid up ordinary share capital of the company, at the rate of six per cent, per annum;

(b) on any other paid up share capital of the company, at the fixed rate per annum payable thereon, unless the Board is satisfied that owing to some specific cause peculiar to the business it is just that a greater amount should be allowed

(4) The standard profits shall be taken to be rupees twenty thousand in any case in which the standard profits computed in accordance with sub-section (1) are less than this sum:

Provided that if the chargeable accounting period is greater or less than one year the sum of rupees twenty thousand shall for the purpose of this sub-section be increased or decreased proportionately.

(b) where the amount of the deficiency of profits exceeds the aggregate amount of the profits so chargeable for the previous chargeable accounting periods, the balance of the deficiency of profits shall be applied in reducing any profits so chargeable for the next subsequent chargeable accounting period, and if and so far as it exceeds the amount of those profits, any profits so chargeable for the next subsequent chargeable accounting period and so on.

amalgamations.

2. (1) As from the date of any change in the persons carrying on a business, the business shall, subject to the provisions of this section, be deemed for the purposes of this Act to have been discontinued, and a new business to have been commenced.

(2) Where the change took place before the 1st day of April, 1939, and consisted in the death or retirement of a partner, or the taking in of a partner, the persons carrying on the business after the change may, by notice given in writing before the prescribed date to the Excess Profits Tax Officer, elect that, for the purposes of the provisions of this Act relating to the computation of standard profits, the business shall not be deemed to have been discontinued.

(3) A business shall not, for the purposes of the provisions of this Act relating to the computation of standard profits, be deemed to be discontinued by reason of any change occurring on or after the 1st day of April, 1939, in the persons carrying it on, and the standard profits of the business in relation to any chargeable accounting period shall be computed accordingly, and, in particular, in computing the capital employed in the business after the change, no regard shall be had to any consideration given in respect of the transfer of the business or any of the assets thereof on the occasion of the change.

(4) Where, on or after the 1st day of April, 1939, two or more businesses are amalgamated, the resulting business shall be treated for the purposes of the provisions of this Act relating to the computation of standard profits as if—

- (a) it had been in existence throughout the period during which there were in existence any of the former businesses;
- (b) any profits made or losses incurred or capital employed in any of those former businesses had been made, incurred or employed in the resulting business; and
- (c) any assets of any of those former businesses had become assets of the resulting business when they became assets of the former business; and, in particular, in computing the capital employed in the resulting business, no regard shall be had to any consideration given in respect of the transfer of any of those former businesses or any of the assets thereof on the occasion of the amalgamation.

(5) Where, on or after the 1st day of April, 1939, part of a business is transferred as a going concern by the person theretofore carrying it on to another person, the part transferred and the part not transferred shall each be deemed for the purposes of the provisions of this Act relating to the computation of standard profits to be a continuation of the original business, and the said provisions, including the provisions of this section relating to amalgamations, shall apply accordingly, subject to any necessary modifications:

Provided that, for the purposes aforesaid, such apportionments shall be made of the profits made, and losses incurred, and the capital employed, in the original business, and of any assets of the original business as may appear to the Excess Profits Tax Officer, or on appeal in the prescribed time and manner to the Board of Referees, to that Board to be just.

(6) Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing provisions of this section, where a business was carried on immediately before the 1st day of April, 1936, and that business, or the main part of that business, was transferred after the said day and before the 1st day of April, 1939, by the person carrying it on to another person, the Excess Profits Tax Officer, if he is satisfied that the business carried on after the transference was not substantially different from the business or part transferred, may, on the application of the person carrying on the business after the transference, treat that person, for the purposes of the provisions of this Act relating to the computation of standard profits, as if he had carried on the transferred business or part of a business as from the date of the commencement of that business, subject, however, to such modifications (including modifications as respects the computation of capital) as he may consider just.

Inter-connected companies.

9. (1) Where any interest, annuity or other annual payment, or any royalty or rent, is paid by one company to another company, and one of those companies is a subsidiary of the other, or both are subsidiaries of a third company, the capital, profits and losses of both companies shall be computed for the purposes of this Act as if—

- (a) the interest, annuity, annual payment, royalty or rent were not payable;
- (b) any debt in respect of which any such interest is payable did not exist; and
- (c) any asset in respect of which any such royalty or rent is payable were the property of the company paying the royalty or the rent.

(2) Where—

- (a) a company (hereinafter referred to as "the principal company") is resident in British India and is not a subsidiary of any other company resident in British India; and
- (b) during the whole or any part of any chargeable accounting period of the principal company, another company, whether or not resident or carrying on business within British India (hereinafter referred to as "the subsidiary company") is a subsidiary of the principal company, the following provisions of this section shall have effect in relation to that chargeable accounting period.

(3) If the subsidiary company is a subsidiary of the principal company throughout the chargeable accounting period, such capital employed in, and profits or losses arising from, the business of the subsidiary company as is employed or arise in—

- (i) the chargeable accounting period; or
- (ii) any year constituting or comprised in the standard period of the principal company, shall be treated for the purposes of this Act as if it or they were capital employed in, or as the case may be, profits or losses arising from, the business of the principal company.

(4) If the subsidiary company is a subsidiary of the principal company during part only of the chargeable accounting period, the excess or deficiency of profits of the subsidiary company for that part of that period shall be treated as increasing or, as the case may be, decreasing the excess or deficiency of profits of the principal company for the whole period and shall not be deemed to be an excess or deficiency of profits of the subsidiary company.

In this sub-section, the expressions "excess" and "deficiency" mean, in relation to profits, an excess or deficiency in relation to the standard profits of the subsidiary company or, as the case may be, the principal company.

(5) In any case to which sub-section (3) or sub-section (4) of this section applies, such alteration, if any, of the periods which would otherwise be the chargeable accounting periods of the subsidiary company shall be made as the Central Board of Revenue may direct.

(6) For the purposes of this section, a company shall be deemed to be a subsidiary of another company if and so long as not less than nine-tenths of its ordinary share capital is owned by that other company, whether directly or through another company or other companies, or partly directly and partly through another company or other companies.

(7) The amount of ordinary share capital of one company owned by a second company through another company or other companies, or partly directly and partly through another company or other companies shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of the Third Schedule.

(8) In this section and the Third Schedule references to ownership shall be construed as references to beneficial ownership, and the expression "ordinary share capital", in relation to a company, means all the issued share capital (by whatever name called) of the company, other than capital the holders whereof have a right to a dividend at a fixed rate but have no other right to share in the profits of the company.

Artificial transactions.

10. (1) A person shall not for the purpose of reducing any excess profits which are or would be chargeable to excess profits tax enter into a fictitious or artificial transaction, or carry out any fictitious or artificial operation.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section an artificial transaction or operation includes every device of whatever nature adopted for the purpose of presenting the accounts of a business in a misleading form or manner with intent or having the effect of evading any obligation imposed by this Act.

(2) Any such transaction or operation shall be treated as null and void for the purpose of computing the excess profits tax payable under this Act.

(3) If the Excess Profits Tax Officer is satisfied that any person has acted in contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1), he may with the previous approval of the Inspecting Assistant Commissioner direct that such person shall pay, in addition to any excess profits tax for which he is or would, but for such transaction or operation, be liable, a penalty not exceeding the tax evaded or sought to be evaded.

Relief in respect of double excess profits taxation.

11. The Central Government may by notification in the official Gazette make provision for the granting of relief in cases where both excess profits tax under this Act and excess profits tax under any law in force in the United Kingdom, in any Indian State, or in any other part of His Majesty's Dominions have been paid upon the profits of any business if it appears to the Central Government that the laws of the United Kingdom or of that Indian State or of that other part of His Majesty's Dominions provide for corresponding relief in respect of excess profits tax charged on profits both in the United Kingdom or in that State or in that part and in British Allowance of excess profits tax in computing income for income-tax purposes.

12. (1) The amount of the excess profits tax payable in respect of a business for any chargeable accounting period diminished by any amount allowed by way of relief under the provisions of section 11, shall, in computing for the purposes of income-tax the profits and gains of that business, be allowed to be deducted as an expense incurred in that period.

(2) There shall also be so deducted the amount of any excess profits tax payable under any law in force in the United Kingdom, in any Indian State or in any other part of His Majesty's Dominions on the profits of the business in respect of any chargeable accounting period to the extent that such profits arose in the United Kingdom or the Indian State or the other part of His Majesty's Dominions in question respectively, after diminishing such amount by any amount which has been allowed by way of relief by repayment, set off or otherwise under any law in the country where the tax is payable providing for the granting of relief in that country where excess profits tax has also been charged in British India:

Provided that where, under the provisions of this Act relating to deficiencies of profits or under any corresponding law in force in the United Kingdom, or in any Indian State or in any other part of His Majesty's Dominions, relief is given by way of repayment from excess profits tax chargeable for any chargeable accounting period previous to that in which the deficiency occurs, the amount of the deduction allowed under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of this section shall not be altered but the amount repayable shall be taken into account in computing the profits and gains of the business for the purposes of income-tax as if it were a profit of the business accruing in the chargeable accounting period in which the deficiency of profits occurs.

Issue of notices for assessment.

13. (1) The Excess Profits Tax Officer may, for the purposes of this Act, require any person whom he believes to be engaged in any business to which this Act applies, or to have been so engaged during any chargeable accounting period, or to be otherwise liable to pay excess profits tax, to furnish within such period, not being less than thirty days, as may be specified in the notice, a return in the prescribed form and verified in the prescribed manner setting forth (along with such other particulars as may be provided for in the notice) with respect to any chargeable accounting period specified in the notice the profits of the business and the standard profits of the business as computed in accordance with the provisions of section 6 or the amount of deficiency available for relief under section 7:

Provided that the Excess Profits Tax Officer may, in his discretion, extend the date for the delivery of the return.

(2) The Excess Profits Tax Officer may serve on any person, upon whom a notice has been served under sub-section (1), a notice requiring him on a date to be therein specified to produce, or cause to be produced, such accounts or documents as the Excess Profits Tax Officer may require and may from time to time serve further notices in like manner requiring the production of such further accounts or documents or other evidence as he may require.

Assessments.

14. (1) The Excess Profits Tax Officer shall, by an order in writing after considering such evidence, if any, as he has required under section 13, assess to the best of his judgment the profits liable to excess profits tax and the amount of excess profits tax payable on the basis of such assessment, or if there is a deficiency of profits, the amount of that deficiency and the amount of excess profits tax, if any, repayable.

(2) Excess profits tax payable in respect of any chargeable accounting period shall be payable by the person carrying on the business in that period.

(3) Where two or more persons were carrying on the business jointly in the chargeable accounting period, the assessment shall be made upon them jointly and, in the case of a partnership, may be made in the partnership name.

(4) Where by virtue of the foregoing provisions an assessment could, but for his death, have been made on any person either solely or jointly with any other person or persons, the assessment may be made on his personal representative either solely or jointly with that other person or persons, as the case may be.

Profits escaping assessment.

15. If, in consequence of definite information which has come into his possession, the Excess Profits Tax Officer discovers that profits of any chargeable accounting period chargeable to excess profits tax have hitherto escaped assessment, or have been underassessed, or have been the subject of excessive relief, he may at any time within five years of the end of the chargeable accounting period in question serve on the person liable to such tax a notice containing all or any of the requirements which may be included in a notice under section 13, and may proceed to assess or re-assess the amount of such profits liable to excess profits tax and the provisions of this Act shall, so far as may be, apply as if the notice were a notice issued under that section.

Penalties.

16. If the Excess Profits Tax Officer, the Appellate Assistant Commissioner or the Commissioner, in the course of any proceedings under this Act, is satisfied that any person has, without reasonable cause, failed to furnish the return required by sub-section (1) of section 13, or to produce or cause to be produced the accounts or documents or other evidence required by the Excess Profits Tax Officer under sub-section (2) of that section, or has concealed particulars of the profits made by or capital employed in the business, or has deliberately furnished inaccurate particulars of such profits or capital, he may direct that such person shall pay by way of penalty, in addition to the amount of any excess profits tax payable, a sum not exceeding—

- (a) where the person has failed to furnish the return required under sub-section (1) of section 13, the amount of the excess profits tax payable; and
- (b) in any other case, the amount of excess profits tax which would have been avoided if the return made had been accepted as correct:

Provided that the Excess Profits Tax Officer shall not impose any penalty under this section without the previous approval of the Inspecting Assistant Commissioner.

Appeals.

17. (1) Any person objecting to the amount of excess profits tax for which he is liable as assessed by the Excess Profits Tax Officer or denying his liability to be assessed under this Act, or objecting to any penalty imposed by the Excess Profits Tax Officer, or to the amount of any deficiency of profits as assessed by the Excess Profits Tax Officer, or to the amount allowed by the Excess Profits Tax Officer by way of relief under any provision of this Act or to any refusal by the Excess Profits Tax Officer to grant relief may appeal to the Appellate Assistant Commissioner:

Provided that no appeal shall lie against a determination of the amount of the profits of any standard period where those profits have been determined in accordance with the first proviso of rule 1 of the First Schedule except in respect of adjustments made under the provisions of that Schedule;

Provided further that no appeal shall lie under this section against any apportionment made by the Excess Profits Tax Officer under the proviso to sub-section (5) of section 8 or against any decision of the Board of Referees under sub-section (3) of section 6;

(2) An appeal shall ordinarily be presented within thirty days of receipt of the notice of demand relating to the assessment or penalty objected to, or in the case of an appeal against the assessment of a deficiency of profits, within thirty days of the receipt of the copy of the order determining the deficiency, or in the case of appeal against the amount of a relief granted or a refusal to grant relief, within thirty days of the receipt of the intimation of the order granting or refusing to grant the relief, but the Appellate Assistant Commissioner may admit an appeal after the expiration of that period if he is satisfied that the appellant had sufficient cause for not presenting it within that period.

(3) An appeal shall be in the prescribed form and shall be verified in the prescribed manner.

(4) The Appellate Assistant Commissioner shall hear and determine the appeal and, subject to the provisions of this Act, shall pass such orders as he thinks fit, and such orders may include an order enhancing the assessment.

(5) The procedure to be adopted in the hearing and determination of appeals shall be in accordance with the regulations made in this behalf by the Central Board of Revenue.

Power of revision.

18. (1) The Commissioner may of his own motion call for the record of any proceeding under this Act which has been taken by any Excess Profits Tax Officer or Appellate Assistant Commissioner subordinate to him, and on receipt of the record may make such enquiry, or cause such enquiry to be made, and, subject to the provisions of this Act, may pass such orders thereon (including an order enhancing an assessment) as he thinks fit:

Provided that he shall not pass any order prejudicial to a person to whose business this Act applies without hearing him, or giving him a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

(2) On the coming into operation of Part II of the Indian Income-tax (Amendment) Act, 1939, sub-section (1) shall cease to have effect, but thereafter any person made liable under this Act for the payment of excess profits tax, or any Excess Profits Tax Officer who objects to an order passed by an Appellate Assistant Commissioner may, within the prescribed time and in the prescribed manner appeal against such order to the Appellate Tribunal constituted under the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, and that Tribunal shall have all such powers in disposing of the appeal as it has in respect of appeals preferred to it under the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922.

Rectification of mistake.

19. The Commissioner may, at any time within four years from the date of any order passed whether by himself or by any Appellate Assistant Commissioner or Excess Profits Tax Officer under this Act, rectify any mistake apparent from the record, and shall within the like period rectify any such mistake which has been brought to his notice by a person to whose business this Act applies:

Provided that no such rectification shall be made having the effect of enhancing the liability of any person unless that person has been given a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

Application of provisions of Act XI of 1922.

20. The provisions of sections 4A, 4B, 10, 13, 24B, 29, 36 to 44C (inclusive), 45 to 48 (inclusive), 49E, 49F, 50, 54, 61 to 63 (inclusive), 65 to 67A (inclusive) of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, shall apply with such modifications, if any, as may be prescribed, as if the said provisions were provisions of this Act and referred to excess profits tax instead of to income-tax, and every officer exercising powers under the said provisions in regard to income-tax may exercise the like powers under this Act in regard to excess profits tax in respect of cases assigned to him under sub-section (3) of section 3 as he exercises in relation to income-tax under the said Act:

Provided that references in the said provisions to the assessee shall be construed as references to a person to whose business this Act applies.

Income-tax papers to be available for the purposes of this Act.

21. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, all information contained in any statement or return made or furnished under the provisions of that Act or obtained or collected for the purposes of that Act may be used for the purposes of this Act.

(2) All information contained in any statement or return made or furnished under the provisions of this Act, or obtained or collected for the purposes of this Act may be used for the purposes of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922.

Failure to deliver returns or statements.

22. If any person fails, without reasonable cause or excuse, to furnish in due time any return or statement, or to produce or cause to be produced, any accounts or documents required to be produced under section 13, he shall on conviction by a Magistrate be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and with a further fine which may extend to fifty rupees for every day during which the default continues.

False statement and declaration.

23. If a person makes in any return required under section 13 any statement which is false, and which he either knows or believes to be false, or does not believe to be true, he shall be punishable on conviction by a Magistrate with simple imprisonment which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

Institution of proceedings and composition of offences.

24. (1) A person shall not be proceeded against for an offence under section 22 or section 23 except at the instance of the Inspecting Assistant Commissioner.

(2) The Inspecting Assistant Commissioner may, either before or after the institution of proceedings, compound any offence punishable under section 22 or section 23.

Power of Central Board of Revenue to grant relief in special cases

25. If the Central Board of Revenue is satisfied in the case of any business which was in existence before the 31st day of March, 1936, that special circumstances exist which render it inequitable that the standard profits of the business in relation to any chargeable accounting period should be computed in accordance with the provisions of clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 6, and no relief has been granted under the provisions of sub-section (3) of that section, the Central Board of Revenue may direct that the standard profits of the business shall be computed as if the profits during the standard period were such greater amount as the Central Board of Revenue thinks just:

Provided that such greater amount shall not exceed—

- (a) where the person carrying on the business is a company, the amount sufficient to provide dividends for the standard period—
 - (i) on the paid up ordinary share capital of the company, at the rate of six per cent. per annum,
 - (ii) on any other paid up share capital of the company, at the fixed rate per annum payable thereon,
- (b) in any other case, eight per cent. of the capital employed in the business during the standard period.

Power to make rule.

26. (1) The Central Board of Revenue may, subject to the control of the Central Government, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may—

- (a) prescribe the procedure to be followed on appeals and on applications for refunds;
- (b) provide for the adaptation to excess profits tax of any of the provisions of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, which are made applicable to excess profits tax by section 20; or of any rules made under any such provision;
- (c) provide for any matter which by, or under, this Act is to be prescribed.

(3) The power to make rules conferred by this section shall be exercised in like manner as the power to make rules under section 59 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922.

SCHEDULE I.

[See section 2(20).]

Rules for the computation of profits for purposes of Excess Profits Tax.

1. The profits of a business during the standard period, or during any chargeable accounting period, shall be separately computed, and shall, subject to the provisions of this Schedule, be computed on the principles on which the profits of a business are computed for the purposes of income-tax under section 10 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, or would be so computed if income-tax were chargeable on those profits:

Provided that where the profits during any standard period have already been determined for the purpose of an assessment under the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, such profits as so determined shall, subject to the adjustments required by this Schedule, be taken as the profits during that period for the purpose of excess profits tax:

Provided further that where a standard period or chargeable accounting period is not an accounting period, the profits or losses of the business during any accounting periods wholly or partly included within the standard period or chargeable accounting period shall be so computed as aforesaid, and such division and apportionment to specific periods of those profits or losses and such aggregation of those profits and losses, or any apportioned part thereof shall be made as appears necessary to arrive at the profit during the standard period or chargeable accounting period: and any such apportionment shall be made in proportion to the number of months or fractions of months in the respective periods unless the Excess Profits Tax Officer, having regard to any special circumstances, otherwise directs.

2. No allowance shall be made for any loss other than a loss sustained in a business to which this Act applies, or for any loss other than a loss made in the accounting period, and in particular, the principle of allowing any loss sustained in any period to be carried forward and set off against the profits of any other period, or of adding the allowance for depreciation for any one period to the allowance for depreciation for any subsequent period and deeming it to be part of the allowance for such subsequent period shall not be followed.

3. (1) Income received from investments shall be included in the profits in the cases and to the extent provided in sub-rules (2) and (3) of this rule and not otherwise.

(2) In the case of the business of a building society, or of a moneylending business, banking business, assurance business or business consisting wholly or mainly in the dealing in or holding of investments, the profits shall include all income received from investments, whether or not such income is included in the profits charged under section 10 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, or is charged under any other section of that Act, or has been subjected to deduction of tax at source or is free of or exempt from income-tax.

(3) In the case of a business which consists wholly or partly in the letting out of property on hire, the income from the property shall be included in the profits of the business whether or not it has been charged to income-tax under section 9 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, or under any other section of that Act.

(4) Where the person carrying on a business is the beneficial owner of any investments, the income from which is by virtue of the provisions of this rule not to be taken into account in computing the profits of the business, and a deduction would, apart from the provisions of this rule, fall to be made in respect of interest on borrowed money, the deduction (if any) to be made in respect of that interest shall be computed as if the principal of the borrowed money were reduced by the value of those investments:

Provided that where the person carrying on the business is not a company, no such reduction shall be deemed to be made in the principal of any borrowed money in respect of any investments unless the investments are mortgaged, charged or pledged as security for the repayment of that money and interest thereon.

4. No deduction shall be made on account of liability to pay, or payment of, income-tax, super-tax, or excess profits tax.

5. (1) In the case of a business carried on, in any accounting period which constitutes or includes a chargeable accounting period, by a company the directors whereof have a controlling interest therein,—

(a) if the standard profits of the company are computed by reference to the profits during a standard period, no deduction shall be allowed in respect of directors' remuneration in excess of the amount paid for directors' remuneration in respect of the standard period or, if the standard period is longer or shorter than the accounting period, in excess of a sum which bears to the sum paid for directors' remuneration in respect of the standard period the same proportion as the length of the accounting period bears to that of the standard period;

- (b) if the standard profits are not computed by reference to the profits during a standard period, no deduction shall be allowed in respect of directors' remuneration.

(2) In this rule the expression "directors' remuneration" does not include the remuneration of any director who is required to devote substantially the whole of his time to the service of the company in a managerial or technical capacity and is not the beneficial owner of, or able, either directly or through the medium of other companies or by any other indirect means, to control, more than five per cent. of the ordinary share capital of the company.

6. Where the performance of a contract extends beyond the accounting period, there shall (unless the Excess Profits Tax Officer, owing to any special circumstances, otherwise directs) be attributed to the accounting period such proportion of the entire profits or loss which has resulted, or which it is estimated will result, from the complete performance of the contract as is properly attributable to the accounting period, having regard to the extent to which the contract as performed therein.

SCHEDULE II.

[See section 2(3).]

Rules for computing the average amount of capital.

1. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Schedule, the average amount of the capital employed in a business (so far as it does not consist of money) shall be taken to be—

- (a) so far as it consists of assets acquired by purchase on or after the commencement of the business, the price at which those assets were acquired, subject to the deductions hereafter specified;
- (b) so far as it consists of assets being debts due to the person carrying on the business, the nominal amount of those debts, subject to the said deductions;
- (c) so far as it consists of any other assets which have been acquired otherwise than by purchase as aforesaid, the value of the assets when they became assets of the business, subject to the said deductions.

(2) The price or value of any assets other than a debt shall be subject to such deductions for depreciation as are necessary to reduce the assets to its written down value as defined in section 2 of this Act, and, in the case of a debt, the nominal amount of the debt shall be subject to any deduction which has been allowed in respect thereof for income-tax purposes.

(3) Where the price of any asset has been satisfied otherwise than in cash, the then value of the consideration actually given for the asset shall be treated as the price at which the asset was acquired.

2. (1) Any borrowed money and debts shall be deducted, and in particular any debt for income-tax or super-tax or for excess profits tax in respect of the business shall be deducted:

Provided that any such debt for income-tax or super-tax or excess profits tax shall, for the purposes of this Schedule, be deemed to have become due—

- (a) in the case of income-tax and super-tax, on the last day of the period of time within which the tax is payable under section 45 of the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922;
- (b) in the case of excess profits tax, on the first day after the end of the chargeable accounting period in respect of which the tax is assessable notwithstanding that the excess profits tax may not have been assessed until after that date.

(2) Where any debt for the excess profits tax assessable in respect of any period is to be deducted under this rule, the amount thereof shall not be reduced as the result of any relief to be given in respect of a deficiency of profits occurring in any subsequent period, and the amount of any such relief shall be treated as having become an asset of the business on the first day after the end of the chargeable accounting period in which the deficiency occurred.

3. Any investments the income from which is by virtue of the provisions of the First Schedule not to be taken into account in computing the profits of the business, and any moneys not required for the purposes of the business, shall be left out of account, but where any investments in the beneficial ownership of the person carrying on the business are so left out of account, the sum (if any) to be deducted under the last preceding rule in respect of borrowed money shall be computed as if the principal of the borrowed money were reduced by the value of those investments:

Provided that where the person carrying on the business is not a company, no reduction shall be deemed to be made in the principal of any borrowed money in respect of any investments unless the investments are mortgaged, charged or pledged as security for the repayment of that money and the interest thereon.

4. For the purpose of ascertaining the average amount of capital employed in a business during any period, the profits or losses made in that period shall, except so far as the contrary is shown, be deemed—

- (a) to have accrued at an even rate throughout the period; and
- (b) to have resulted, as they accrued, in a corresponding increase or decrease, as the case may be, in the capital employed in the business.

5. Where, in accordance with the second proviso of section 5 of this Act, this Act is applicable to part only of a business, the capital employed in that part shall be computed separately from any other capital of the person carrying on the business, and all references to capital employed in a business shall be construed as references to capital employed in that part of the business only.

SCHEDULE III.

[See section 9(7).]

Rules for determining the amount of capital held by a company through other companies.

1. Where, in the case of a number of companies, the first directly owns ordinary share capital of the second and the second directly owns ordinary share capital of the third, then, for the purposes of this Schedule, the first shall be deemed to own ordinary share capital of the third through the second and, if the third directly owns ordinary share capital of a fourth, the first shall be deemed to own ordinary share capital of the fourth through the second and third, and the second shall be deemed to own ordinary share capital of the fourth through the third, and so on.

(a) any number of companies of which the first directly owns ordinary share capital of the next and the next directly owns ordinary share capital of the next but one and so on, and, if they are more than three, any three or more of them, are referred to as "a series";

(i) that company which owns ordinary share capital of another through the remainder is referred to as "the first owner";

(ii) that other company the ordinary share capital of which is so owned is referred to as "the last owned company";

(iii) the remainder, if one only, is referred to as an "intermediary" or, if more than one, is referred to as a "chain of intermediaries";

(c) a company in a series which directly owns ordinary share capital of another company in the series is referred to as an "owner";

(d) any two companies in a series of which one owns ordinary share capital of the other directly, and not through one or more of the other companies in the series, are referred to as being directly related to one another.

3. Where every owner in a series owns the whole of the ordinary share capital of the company to which it is directly related, the first owner shall be deemed to own through the intermediary or chain of intermediaries the whole of the ordinary share capital of the last owned company.

4. Where one of the owners in a series owns a fraction of the ordinary share capital of the company to which it is directly related, and every other owner in the series owns the whole of the ordinary share capital of the company to which it is directly related, the first owner shall be deemed to own that fraction of the ordinary share capital of the last owned company through the intermediary or chain of intermediaries.

(a) each of two or more of the owners in a series owns a fraction, and every other owner in the series owns the whole, of the ordinary share capital of the company to which it is directly related; or the first owner shall be deemed to own through the intermediary or chain of intermediaries such fraction of the ordinary share capital of the last owned company as results from the multiplication of those fractions.

6. Where the first owner in any series owns a fraction of the ordinary share capital of the last owned company in that series through the intermediary or chain of intermediaries in that series, and also owns another fraction or other fractions of the ordinary share capital of the last owned company, either—

- (a) directly; or
- (b) through any intermediary or intermediaries which is not a member or are not members of that series; or
- (c) through a chain or chains of intermediaries of which one or some or all are not members of that series; or
- (d) in a case where the series consists of more than three companies, through an intermediary or intermediaries which is a member or are members of the series, or through a chain or chains of intermediaries consisting of some but not all of the companies of which the chain of intermediaries in the series consists;

then, for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of the ordinary share capital of the last owned company owned by the first owner, all those fractions shall be aggregated and the first owner shall be deemed to own the sum of those fractions.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The outbreak of war, while it has necessitated greatly increased expenditure by the Government on defence and other services, has simultaneously created opportunities for the earning by companies and persons engaged in business of abnormally large profits. The object of this Bill is to secure for the Government a considerable portion of the additional business profits which accrue as a result of the conditions prevailing during the war.

2. The Bill seeks to impose a tax of 50 per cent. of the excess of the profits made in any accounting period after the 1st day of April, 1939, over what in the Bill is called "standard profits". The standard profits are, in respect of business in existence prior to the 1st day of April, 1936, the average of various accounting periods from 1935 to 1938, subject to certain adjustments. The taxpayer is given the option of choosing between several periods or averages, and provision is made for a reference to a Board of Referees for special relief, if the profits during each of the periods which could otherwise have been chosen are abnormally low. The standard profits for business started after the 1st day of April, 1936, are computed by reference to a percentage of the capital employed in the business.

3. The Bill contains necessary provisions for computing profits and capital, and these provisions follow closely those of the excess profits tax imposed in the United Kingdom by the Finance (No. 2) Act of 1939.

4. It is intended that the Bill should come into force on a date to be determined by the Central Government, and should remain in force until repealed. In this respect the imposition of this tax differs from that of income-tax which is imposed afresh each year by the annual Finance Act.

5. The Bill provides for the Act to be administered by officers of the Income-tax Departments under the Central Board of Revenue, and contains provisions for assessment, collection, appeal, reference to the High Court on a point of law, penalties for false statements, etc., which closely correspond to those in the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922.

What is Smoke?

Smoke is dirt in the wrong place; and home smoke is the most dangerous kind of smoke. It has been found by analysis in Britain that smoke from home chimneys contains at least 37·14 per cent. crude tar. Smoke from factory chimneys contains only ·67 per cent. tar. Crude tar is responsible for most of the damage done by smoke.

Home smoke is the dangerous smoke. This smoke consists of obnoxious waste matter. When this drifts on to any surface the tar makes it stick like a fine varnish. It is a matter of common observation that a stream of ordinary water cannot remove smoke containing tar from polished glass.

There is not a spot in the whole house into which smoke does not penetrate. Food even cannot be set out to cool without smuts falling into it. Open the window and smuts come in. Close it and the danger is still there if one has a raw-fuel fireplace indoors. Dirty food is dangerous food. If you cook at an unsuitable "chula" smuts and soot settle on your food.

The main cause of domestic smoke in Calcutta is the use of cow dung cakes or wood scraps and kerosine oil for igniting soft coke which is almost universally used as fuel in household kitchens. Coke is by itself practically smokeless fuel.

When coal burns in an old fashioned fireplace only 15 per cent. of the heat is produced and a large volume of smoke is sent out on its round of endless nuisance. One is wasting heat and energy and sending by-products up the chimney.

Smoke and the lungs.

Smoke devitalises, disables and poisons. Smoke gets into your lungs and remains there, leaving traces for the rest of your life, breaking down your immunity to infection.

Inhalation of domestic smoke causes the lung linings to become rough and thickened, the surrounding tissues lose their elasticity and become leathery in texture. These changes can produce the symptoms of chronic bronchitis, the irritation causing partial collapse of the lungs and incomplete oxygenation of the blood and may lead to Tuberculosis. Acute respiratory diseases cause more deaths than all other infectious diseases combined; city fog is a mass murderer.

In describing the evil effects of smoke the Right Hon'ble D. Lloyd George, M.P., said, "Lack of sunlight and fresh air are among the most serious evils which afflict the poorer populations of our great cities and are potent causes of sickness and mortality and the growth of slum conditions. Every support should be given to sane and practical methods of preventing the pollution of the air in our industrial centres by avoidable smoke and thus lessening the heavy toll levied in our cities on life and health".

The Press in England points out that "the statistics show 68 per cent. of London's smoke is caused by domestic chimneys".

Factory smoke.

The Bengal Smoke Nuisances Commission commenced its activities in 1906 for the abatement of smoke emission within the areas controlled by the Calcutta and the Howrah Municipalities. The average emission of black smoke recorded per chimney was at that time 13.1 minutes per hour; to-day it stands at .09 minutes. Much of this success is due to the generous co-operation of the factory owners with the Commission. It is realised that smoke is coal and in its prevention lies a gilt-edged investment.

At a meeting of Fuel Engineers held at Kalamazoo, Mich., on the 13th December 1938, Mr. J. F. Barkley, Washington, D. C., declared "no matter how well-planned the equipment may be, the project of successful smoke abatement finally ends with human factors. The operators must be trained in the handling of their particular equipment and entrusted with the idea of abating smoke and fly-ash. Devices should be installed so that the operator can know at all times the smoke condition of the stack. The simplest device perhaps is the ordinary mirror so placed that the top of the stack is visible".

Atmosphere of Calcutta.

It is common knowledge that rain washes the impurities from the air and that a 12 mile an hour wind scavenges the air and simplifies a city's smoke problem.

Locally the wind velocity averages about 2 miles per hour but when, as in our cold weather months, wind and rain totally fail, the city and its environs are in the grip of a "smoke fog". The air is rendered pungent and unfit for human consumption and there is an increased number of deaths from respiratory diseases.

There are thousands of houses and bustees in this big city of Calcutta. And in the vast majority of cases, the houses and the bustees are occupied by more than one family, the number varying from 1 to 5 or more, which means smoke emanates from one to five hearths from each house or bustee hut, assuming there is only one hearth per family. But really in a large number of cases there is more than one hearth in each family, usually two or more. One can thus visualise the large quantity of smoke that emanates from these places.

There is no legislation for domestic smoke nuisance in Calcutta and its suburbs. The Commission suggests that no plans should be sanctioned for dwelling houses unless a serviceable "chula" is installed. The provision of a smoke flue for each hearth or group of hearths should be insisted on before sanction is accorded to the plan of the house or bustee and inspection of these houses after construction by responsible officers of the Health and Building Departments of the Corporation. They will ensure that such chimneys have been properly constructed before the houses and bustees are permitted to be occupied. This can be done by refusing to allow water and sewer connections in the event of failure to comply with the requirements of the sanctioned plan. And if anybody thus occupies such a house or bustee, the lack of provision of a suitable supply of water and that of drainage can easily be considered as grounds for declaring those premises as unfit for human habitation and the person or persons concerned can then be prosecuted.

In the interests of public health the Commission, in collaboration with the Oriental Gas Company and the Calcutta Electric Supply Corporation planned an exhibit for the "1938 Calcutta Health Week" giving publicity to the pollution of the air by smoke and its deleterious effects on health and property. Illustrative leaflets designed by the Commission on the abatement of domestic smoke were freely distributed amongst those attending the Exhibition. These leaflets were also distributed on request to the Ward Health Associations for imparting instruction to the public by lantern lectures.

General control by the Commission.

The Commission which represents all the interests concerned in the abatement of smoke nuisance held 12 meetings in the year under review. It maintained contact, as in the past, with the various smoke departments, fuel, engineering and research institutions in Europe and America and kept abreast of the latest progress in the scientific use of fuel towards the abatement of industrial smoke.

At the suggestion of the Chief Inspector a modern smokeless apparatus was fitted to two Calcutta Plants for experiment and a very satisfactory result was obtained on demonstration. The owners of these plants have agreed to instal this smokeless apparatus in their factories.

During the year action was taken as under:—

Offences reported for departmental action	...	2,544
Offences reported by telephone for departmental action	...	1,117
Inspections and tests of installations	...	3,910
Statutory warnings served	...	15
Prosecutions	...	34
Convictions	...	32

In addition to the above preventive action 325 steam ships and launches and 168 locomotives were reported to the local marine and railway authorities for their usual departmental action which in all cases was readily undertaken.

Since the appointment of the two smoke observers in October 1938 the area under the control of the Commission including the river has been kept under constant observation. The number of reports for offences thus detected increased very largely; and the Inspectors having thus been relieved of observation duty, were engaged in inspection duty and in imparting technical advice to offenders.

The Inspectors met with difficulty in proving in Court the official records of smoke observation in prosecution cases and the Court Inspector had to be engaged to conduct contested cases. The maximum fine imposed for offences under the Act was Rs. 150 and the minimum Re. 1.

Of the 34 prosecutions which were launched (Appendix II) two had to be withdrawn because in one case the owner left the place and in the other case the requirements of the Act were complied with in the meantime.

It may be again stated that the policy of the Commission is to give advice and not to be unduly repressive.

Observation of smoke.

A constant watch is kept on smoke nuisance from the Central Smoke Observatory which is equipped with a telephone so that the owner or manager of an offensive chimney may be called up and the emission of smoke of prohibited density immediately brought to his notice. Observations of locomotives, steamers, launches, road-rollers and minor industrial plants are taken locally. The total number of observations made during the year was 7,966, against 6,682 of the previous year.

The observation of smoke emission was carried out up to October 1938 by the two Assistant Inspectors who alternately devoted half a day to this duty, and from November 1938 by the newly appointed two smoke observers who have been observing from the observatory and locally in turn.

A Smoke Inspector is a qualified engineer and a combustion specialist and his principal duties are to ascertain by tests, etc., the causes of defective installations and suggest means to remedy the same. The services of the Smoke Inspector are therefore chiefly required at the factory where he can advise on smoke prevention and fuel economy.

Plans for Furnaces, Flues and Chimneys.

Well designed plants are necessary for smoke prevention and fuel economy and it is not only obligatory but convenient to consult the Commission whose wide experience is always at the disposal of the public. Smoke prevention must begin at the furnace and not at the chimney top. Properly proportioned furnaces, flues and chimneys increase the power of the plant and reduce the overload and fuel costs and, on the other hand, avoid trouble in complying with the requirements of the Smoke Nuisances Act.

During the year the Commission examined and approved 75 plans of which 58 were made in the office of the Commission, covering nearly all types of industrial furnaces. The number of plans approved by the Commission since 1916, when the Act was amended to govern construction of or alteration to plants, now totals 1,451. The low average emission of smoke per chimney (Appendix I) has been attained through this most important measure.

The total fees received during the year on account of plans, etc., are detailed below:—

	Rs.
For making plans	505
For approval of plans	600
For final inspection of chimney, etc., and grant of permission	1,343
Total ...	2,448

The Commission cannot with its small staff regularly keep in touch with every case of smoke nuisance within its controlled area of approximately 80 square miles. It has again been indebted to the public for bringing cases to its notice by means of complaints. During the year 80 complaints were received against 81 in the preceding year. The Commission once more assures the public that on receipt of a complaint prompt and careful enquiry is made. Relief is given wherever possible and the Commission endeavours to see that industry is not subjected to unreasonable demands.

The investigation into complaints is solely carried out by the Inspectors and not by the Smoke Observers.

Reduction of Smoke by Electricity and Gas.

Electricity.

The application of electricity and gas to meet domestic requirements has an important bearing on the general comfort and the health of the public and it is pleasing to record that there is an increased demand by property owners for smokeless appliances as these contribute to the city's health.

Electric appliances both for commercial and domestic use should be encouraged as permanent remedies for atmospheric pollution.

The Calcutta Electric Supply Corporation state as follows:—

“During the year 1938 they have signed agreements for the supply of electricity to large works and mills in their licensed area to a value of over 22,000 H.P. of which more than 15,000 H.P. is required to replace existing steam turbines and steam engines. In addition to the foregoing there have been a number of smaller works and factories which have adopted electrical drives in place of steam engines during the past year.”

Gas.

The contribution made to the solution of the city's smoke problem by the Oriental Gas Company, Ltd., increases every year. They report a continued increase in the installation of cooking and water heating appliances for domestic purposes and they have fitted up several large blocks of flats with gas appliances during the year. They state that the demand for gas heated appliances during their last financial year (ending 30th June 1938) continued very satisfactorily.

During the period the number of appliances installed showed the largest increase within recent years.

Five hundred and three cooking appliances comprising cookers, hot plates, grillers, ring burners were fitted for domestic, hotel and restaurant use.

Three hundred and twenty-five water heating appliances (geysers, etc.) and 136 gas operated refrigerators were installed.

They have also been very successful in the industrial field and have installed 282 appliances covering a large variety of trades.

The value of gas as a smokeless fuel in a convenient form is readily appreciated by property owners and residents and, in many cases, gas appliances have been installed to take the place of coal “chulas” and solid fuel boilers.

Inspectorate.

During the year Mr. R. Grant, Chief Inspector and Secretary, was assisted by Mr. B. N. Mitter and Mr. B. Mukerjee, Inspectors of Smoke Nuisances.

Smoke observers.

Two smoke observers whose appointments were sanctioned by Government during the year were engaged from the 11th October 1938 for two years. They have been entrusted with independent observations from 1st November 1938, after a short training in the work.

Conclusion.

The Commission records its grateful thanks to the various smoke, fuel and engineering research departments. Thanks are also due to those local owners, managers and engineers whose co-operation and valuable assistance have greatly helped the Commission, and to the technical staff for their energy and loyalty in carrying out the policy of the Commission.
